Our Story

The story of DERE STREET is savoury and sweet. While spending a two-week holiday in Cornwall, England, David Cooper and his wife, Robin, along with their three children got to experience the richness of life in the English countryside while enjoying the comfort foods of David's native England. Call it a mid-life crisis or perhaps fate, those two weeks would change the Cooper's future. David had been looking for a new direction and had found it, turning his passion for food and baking into a great family business.

David was born and raised in northern England, a land of ancient history and untamable wilderness that exists to this day. It is the land of Hadrian's Wall, Roman ruins, Geordies, Newcastle United and....DERE STREET, an ancient Roman road built in the 1st Century AD under the Governor Agricola. While much of the road today dots the English countryside as ruins along walking trails, a good portion of it is the footprint of the A1, the Great North Road linking England to Scotland. It was David's wife Robin's idea to call the company Dere Street hoping it would become the family's footprint to a great new enterprise.

The company was founded in 2004 and like most small businesses; it was started at home. Working out of the kitchen they peddled their line of all natural, flavourful scones to small bakeries in Fairfield County, CT. The company now manufactures their line of British baked goods from a new state of the art commercial commissary in Danbury, CT. While scones remain the backbone of the company the Dere Street product line has expanded to include many other British pastries and desserts that include, Shortbread, Dessert Puddings, Tarts, and Loaf Cakes, as well as traditional American Style Muffins and Cookies.

The company's line of products is sold to food service customers and upscale retailers throughout the USA. Dere Street's blueprint for success is taken from the Romans 2000 years ago as they undertook the building of DERE STREET...hard work, an untamable spirit, quality and pride will produce a product that will withstand the passage of time.

Sadly, David's wife Robin passed away on February 12, 2014 at the tender age of 58 after a five-year battle with ovarian cancer. In Robin's name David continues the family dream of making Dere Street a success.

Dere Street Bakewell Tarts

This buttery shortcrust pastry holds a moist almond filling made with pure almond flour and has a layer of raspberry preserves tucked underneath. Topped with sliced almonds, this is an elegant, rich and addictive dessert.

Steeped in a rich history dating back to England in the early 1900's, this Dere Street Bakewell Tart is a stellar representation of the original and is sure to be one of your favourite new desserts.

Perhaps Britain's greatest culinary contribution to the dessert table, this traditional tart is delicious beyond belief. Delicious on its own, served a la mode or with English custard (Crème Anglaise).
